INDEX TO VOLUME XV (1954)

(Names of Contributors Appear in SMALL CAPITALS)

Action at a distance, 146–52

American, debate on Negro's place in nature, 384ff.; Indian savage, 322f.; lecture lyceum, 119–35; pragmatism, 413f., 445f.; separation of powers during Civil War, 397–412; governmental theory of Spanish-, 71–93; v. James, Shedd, Smith (Preserved)

Analogy, and Renaissance culture, 299–304

Anarchism, Swift's influence on Godwin's doctrine of, 371–83

Bacon, Francis, idea of scientist, 348–70

Bain, Alexander, and pragmatism, 413–44

Beard, Charles, scepticism of, 573–88

Berkeley, and Malebranche on self, 554–72

BIDNEY, DAVID, on American Indian, 322–7

Biography, in Greek history, 136–45

BOUSMA, WILLIAM J., on Postel, 218–32

Cabalism, Renaissance, 218ff.

CAPEK, MILIC, on James, 260–79

Christian, symbols and Swift, 201ff., 599f.; v. Erasmus, Ockham

CHROUST, ANTON-HERMANN, on treason and patriotism in ancient Greece, 280–8

COHEN, I. BERNARD, on recent books in history of science, 163–92

DEININGER, W. T., on Beard, 573–88

Descartes, on action at a distance, 146–52

Economic, views of Hobbes, 589–95, Mach's principle, 597

Eighteenth century, American debate on Negro's place in nature, 384f.; v. Godwin, Lamb, Swift

Elia, mind of, 246–59; v. Lamb

English, treason trials, 471–98; v. Berkeley, Glanvill, Hobbes, Lamb, Swift

Erasmus, religious thought of, 499f.

Ethnology, North-American, 322f.

Faith, and history in Shedd, 153–62

FALNES, OSCAR, on C. H. Pearson, 312–21

FERGUSON, W. K., on Erasmus, 499–508

FISCH, MAX H., on Bain and pragmatism, 413–44

FRITZ, ANITA D., on Berkeley's self, 554–72

FRYE, ROLAND M., on Swift's Yahoo, 201–17; 599–601

GARRATY, JOHN A., on Preserved Smith, Harlow, and psychology, 456–65

Glanvill, Joseph, philosophical reputation of, 305–11

Godwin, William, Swift's influence on, 370–83

Greek, history and personalities, 136–45; treason and patriotism, 280–8

GREENE, JOHN C., American debate on Negro's place in nature, 384–96

Harlow, Ralph V., and psychology, 456f.

Hermetic, tradition in Joyce, 23–39

HIGHAM, JOHN, on history of ideas, 339–47

Historiography, Japanese, 466f.; method of, 399f.; psychology and, 456f.; v. Beard, Ferguson, Lowinsky

HOFSTADTER, RICHARD, 328–9

James, William, early criticism of automaton theory, 260–79

Japanese, on American intellectual history, 466f.

JESSUP, BERTRAM, on mind of Elia, 246–59

INDEX TO VOLUME XV (1954)

(Names of Contributors Appear in SMALL CAPITALS)

Action at a distance, 146–52

American, debate on Negro's place in nature, 384ff.; Indian savage, 322f.; lecture lyceum, 119–35; pragmatism, 413f., 445f.; separation of powers during Civil War, 397–412; governmental theory of Spanish-, 71–93; v. James, Shedd, Smith (Preserved)

Analogy, and Renaissance culture, 299–304

Anarchism, Swift's influence on Godwin's doctrine of, 371–83

Bacon, Francis, idea of scientist, 348–70

Bain, Alexander, and pragmatism, 413–44

Beard, Charles, scepticism of, 573–88

Berkeley, and Malebranche on self, 554–72

BIDNEY, DAVID, on American Indian, 322–7

Biography, in Greek history, 136–45

BOUSMA, WILLIAM J., on Postel, 218–32

Cabalism, Renaissance, 218ff.

CAPEK, MILIC, on James, 260–79

Christian, symbols and Swift, 201ff., 599f.; v. Erasmus, Ockham

CHROUST, ANTON-HERMANN, on treason and patriotism in ancient Greece, 280–8

COHEN, I. BERNARD, on recent books in history of science, 163–92

DEININGER, W. T., on Beard, 573–88

Descartes, on action at a distance, 146–52

Economic, views of Hobbes, 589–95, Mach's principle, 597

Eighteenth century, American debate on Negro's place in nature, 384f.; v. Godwin, Lamb, Swift

Elia, mind of, 246–59; v. Lamb

English, treason trials, 471–98; v. Berkeley, Glanvill, Hobbes, Lamb, Swift

Erasmus, religious thought of, 499f.

Ethnology, North-American, 322f.

Faith, and history in Shedd, 153–62

FALNES, OSCAR, on C. H. Pearson, 312–21

FERGUSON, W. K., on Erasmus, 499–508

FISCH, MAX H., on Bain and pragmatism, 413–44

FRITZ, ANITA D., on Berkeley's self, 554–72

FRYE, ROLAND M., on Swift's Yahoo, 201–17; 599–601

GARRATY, JOHN A., on Preserved Smith, Harlow, and psychology, 456–65

Glanvill, Joseph, philosophical reputation of, 305–11

Godwin, William, Swift's influence on, 370–83

Greek, history and personalities, 136–45; treason and patriotism, 280–8

GREENE, JOHN C., American debate on Negro's place in nature, 384–96

Harlow, Ralph V., and psychology, 456f.

Hermetic, tradition in Joyce, 23–39

HIGHAM, JOHN, on history of ideas, 339–47

Historiography, Japanese, 466f.; method of, 399f.; psychology and, 456f.; v. Beard, Ferguson, Lowinsky

HOFSTADTER, RICHARD, 328–9

James, William, early criticism of automaton theory, 260–79

Japanese, on American intellectual history, 466f.

JESSUP, BERTRAM, on mind of Elia, 246–59

Joyce, James, and Hermetic tradition, 23–39
Katz, Joseph, on Plotinus and the Gnostics, 289–98
Lalande, André, on Poincaré, 596–8
Lamb, Charles, 246f., v. Elia
Levy, Aaron, on Hobbes, 589–95
Liberalism, v. Beard, Hofstadter, Falnes
Lowinsky, Edward, on Renaissance music, 509–53
Madden, Edward H., on Chauncey Wright, 455–55
Malebranche, and Berkeley, 554–72
Mazzeo, Joseph A., on analogy in Renaissance, 299–304
Medieval, Ockham and conciliar theory of canonists, 40–70
Method, of intellectual history, 399–47
Miliband, Ralph, on Owen's politics, 233–45
Morse, Richard M., on theory of Spanish-American government, 71–93
Murray, W. A., on Frye and Swift, 599–601
Music, in Renaissance, 509–53
Negro, place in nature, 384–96
Nineteenth century, debate on negro, 384ff.; Chauncey Wright, 445ff.; genealogy of pragmatism, 413ff.; Joyce, 23–39; politics of Owen, 233–45; racial theory of C. H. Pearson, 312–21; romanticism, 3–22; Shedd on faith and history, 153–62; Spanish-American theory of government, 71–93; v. Beard, James, Lamb, Poincaré
Ockham, conciliar theory of, 40–70
Owen, Robert, politics of, 233–45
Patriotism, and treason in ancient Greece, 280f.; in 16th cent. England, 471ff.
Pearson, Charles H., liberal, 312ff.
Pearson, Lionel, on Greek historical personalities, 136–45
Peirce, Charles S., v. Poincaré, Pragmatism
Philosophy, Chauncey Wright, 445f.; genealogy of pragmatism, 413ff.; James's criticism of mechanical, 260–79; Plotinus and Gnostics, 289–98; Renaissance cabalism, 218f.; v. Bain, Berkeley, Descartes, Glanvill, Poincaré, Ockham, Shedd
Plotinus, and the Gnostics, 289–98
Political, attitudes of ancient Greeks to treason, 280ff.; English treason trials, 471–98; "Gay Vienna," 94ff.; Spanish-American theory, 71–93; theory of canonists and Ockham, 40–70; views of Owen, 233–45; v. Godwin
Popkin, Richard H., on Glanvill, 305–11
Postel, and cabalism, 218–32
Poulet, Georges, on time and romanticism, 3–22
Pragmatism, Bain and, 413–44
Preu, James, on Swift and Godwin, 371–83
Primitivism, idea of savage, 322f.
Prior, Moody E., on Bacon, 348–70
Psychology, and history, 456–65; v. James
Race, and idea of progress, 312f.
Religion, in Swift, 201f., 509f.; v. Erasmus, Ockham, Plotinus
Renaissance, cabalism and Postel, 218–32; music in, 509–53; religion in Erasmus, 499–508; universal analogy in culture of, 299–304
Riker, William H., 397–412
Romanticism, timelessness and, 3–22
Schnitzler, Henry, on "Gay Vienna," 94–118

SCHWANTES, ROBERT B., on Japanese intellectual history of America, 466–8
Science, Bacon's idea of man of, 348ff.; Poincaré's philosophy of, 596–8; recent books in history of, 163–92; v. Action at a distance
Seventeenth century, Bacon's idea of scientists, 348–70; v. Descartes, Glanvill, Malebranche, Swift
Shedd, William G. T., on faith and history, 153–62
Sixteenth century, v. Erasmus, Postel, Renaissance
SMITH, LACEY B., on English treason trials, 471–98
Smith, Preserved, Harlow and psychology, 456–65
Spanish-American, theory of government, 71–93
STROUT, CUSHING, on Shedd, 153–62
SUPPES, PATRICK, on Descartes, 146–52
Swift, Christian symbolism of, 201f.; influence on Godwin, 371–83
Symbols, Christian, in Swift, 201f.
TIERNEY, BRIAN, on Ockham, 40–70
Time, and romanticism, 3–22
TINDALL, WILLIAM YORK, on Joyce, 23–39
Treason, among Greeks, 208f.; trials and confessions in 16th c. England, 471–98
Twentieth century, Beard's scepticism, 573ff.; Japanese on American intellectual history, 466f.; v. Hofstadter, James, Poincaré, P. Smith
Vienna, "Gay," as myth and reality, 94–118
WAGNER, VERN, on lecture lyceum, 119–36
Wright, Chauncey, new material, 445–55

THE THEORY OF
THE MIXED CONSTITUTION
IN ANTIQUITY

A CRITICAL ANALYSIS OF POLYBIUS' POLITICAL IDEAS

by Kurt von Fritz

In this book, Kurt von Fritz, Jay Professor of Greek at Columbia University, shows how Polybius analyzed the constitution of the Roman Republic to derive his theory of the mixed constitution, making a complete historical and theoretical analysis of Polybius' contribution to political thought. He synthesizes new findings in Roman history, bridging the gap between the specialized studies and the greater problems to which they refer. 500 pages. $7.50

Columbia University Press • 2960 Broadway, New York 27, N. Y.